PEER-TO-PEER MENTAL HEALTH SUPPORTS
SMALL GROUP CONVERSATION

Who were you as a middle school student?

Who was an adult or mentor or student you looked up to in school?

Who made you feel seen and how did they do that?

Emily

WHY PEER TO PEER MENTAL HEALTH SUPPORTS?

◆ Youth want to talk to other youth

“We’ve had students that refuse to talk to anyone else - parents, adults. They want to talk to us. So we take time with them to make sure trust is established”

“We are not professionals, but it does help to have students come in here to talk about their problems in a judgement-free zone”

“Students are more likely to listen to someone else who is their age, rather than an adult. And I find it easier to confide in someone who is my friend and my age rather than a grown up in my life”

“Our wavelengths kind of match up more than it would with an adult, you know?”

“Peer-to-peer programs are a great resource for young people, especially for those who feel scared to approach an adult for help. For many of us, there is a barrier that can be felt between us and someone from a different generation”

PEER LEADERS SAY.....
WHY PEER TO PEER MENTAL HEALTH SUPPORTS?

- Youth want to talk to other youth
- Peer relationships are highly valued by adolescents

"My experience as a Peer Counselor did in fact influence my career plans and until this day I am very grateful for that. My first two years of high school, I didn’t have a sense of direction. However, in becoming a peer mentor I found my place and instantly knew that I wanted to study Psychology straight out of high school. Currently I am Working as a Behavioral Counselor at a Mental Health facility.

Vanessa Avila, Peer Counselor and Pomona High School graduate 2017

PRINCIPLES OF EFFECTIVE PEER-TO-PEER PROGRAMS

- Clinical support
- Youth input and involvement in program design, builds on youth development principles ladder
- Strong curriculum that is developmentally appropriate, continuously updated
- Social justice and race equity lens
- Strong partnerships and buy-in from school administration
- Dosage of training matches what peer work will be
- Invest in youth as leaders, providing real training on transferable skills.

HOW?

- No one size fits all!
- Design your “WHY”
  - Why are you starting a peer-to-peer program?
  - What need are you addressing?
  - What data can help you determine what model is the best fit?
  - Who can partner with you?
  - How will you know it’s working? What does success look like?
- From Design to Implementation!

PEER MENTORING / PEER COUNSELING

Madison Park Academy Mentors - Oakland, California

"The challenging part was building the connection with my mentee. It took some time to gain their trust and for them to know that I will be there for them."

"I make sure to listen to them and ask questions to make them feel that I care because I do. I always have a positive attitude to uplift them."

"I enjoy building a bond with the mentees I have, and supporting them. I sometimes see myself in them and it’s like talking to my younger self."

"I love checking in with my mentee, she’s super joyful and we always have a fun time whenever we are together."

"The most challenging part was building the connection with my mentee. It took some time to gain their trust and for them to know that I will be there for them."
PEER COUNSELING

“BUT THEY ARE JUST KIDS!”

Strong peer mentoring/counseling programs have:
- Very clear guidance around scope of the peer’s role
- Thorough training on red flags that need to be reported to advisor
- Expectations around documentation of all peer sessions
- Expectations around boundaries
- Lots of practice - role plays, scenarios, opportunities to grow
- Adequate staff time to oversee the program for quality and safety
- School staff training and buy-in
CULTURE KEEPERS - El Cerrito High School

“I learned how to relate to my peers in a way that also kept them safe and made them feel heard.”

“I learned patience, humility, empathy, and the importance of looking at a situation from all points of view.”

“Communication skills, ability to listen, reading body language, tone of voice, summarizing to the speaker, case managing, confidentiality are all skills I learned as a peer counselor”

“What are some of the skills you learned?
