New Website for Youth: School Health Careers

This web application was created by School-Based Health Alliance.

ABOUT THE WEBSITE

SBHA launched our new website, “School Health Careers,” which is a free, youth-friendly website that helps students explore careers in school-based health centers, learn about what they do, understand the education each role requires, and connect their interests to possible career paths. It is designed for students and for the families, educators, counselors, health professionals, and youth-serving organizations that support them.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

Share: Post the launch graphic and one caption on your social media channels.

Personalize: Add one sentence about why healthcare career access matters in your community.

Connect: Tag the School-Based Health Alliance and invite schools, counselors, families, and youth programs to reshare.
